

Power of attorney for move-in inspection

If you give another person the power of attorney to attend the move-in inspection on your behalf, that person is required to bring this signed power of attorney and a personal identification document.

At the move-in inspection, the holder of the power of attorney will receive the keys and sign the key receipt form, the move-in report, the meter readings as well as the registration with utility companies.

If you are two persons renting the accommodation together, you must both sign this power of attorney.

Please note that the deadline for reporting any defects or shortcomings is 14 days after the tenancy begins. If you fail to do so, you may be held liable for rectification of such defects or shortcomings on vacation.
